Eyes, Ears, and Mouth

Directions: Start by cutting out all the pieces, assemble the glasses, and find a pair of headphones. You will need three people to play this game each player assigned a task. One person will be blind so they will have to wear the glasses. The second player will not be able to hear because they will be wearing noise canceling headphones. The last player won't be able to talk during the game. Have the mute player start by putting the color blocks somewhere on the board without anyone else seeing the pattern. They will then have to try and communicate to the deaf player where he put the colored blocks on the grid without showing him the grid board. As the deaf player starts to figure out where the blocks go they must help the blind player place the colored blocks in the correct order without touching anything for them. The goal is to try and communicate with limited sense and create the same grid pattern from the beginning.

Blind Player's Board

Wear the glasses so you can't see the other players or the board. Hopefully your team can guide you to success!
